

2002-03-26

Greg Lamy Guitar

Greg Lamy was born in New-Orleans in 1974 and grew up in Luxembourg. He started with classical music at the age of 14 at the « Conservatoire de la Ville de Luxembourg » as well as electric guitar at the music school Cavem in Luxembourg. Aged 16, he studied jazz guitar at the Conservatory with Jacques Piroton. He got soon involved in the Jazz Scene and performed in Luxembourg, France, Germany. In 1993, he taught jazz guitar and classical guitar at the Cavem School.

In 1995, Greg went to Berklee College of Music in Boston where he studied with Jon Damian, Garnson Fewell, Jon Baboian. He got involved in the Jazz Scene in Boston.

In 1997, he went for one academic year to London and earned the National First Prize in jazz guitar at the Trinity College in London.

Back in Boston, he attended again Berklee College for the Bachelor's degree and studied with Hai Crook, Edourd Tomassi and Mick Goodrick.

He performed with Joshua Davis, Oscar Stagnaro, Carlos Amilio in Cuba, Jon Damian, Bob Harrigan, Mohamed Kalifa in Guinea, etc.

Greg is currently doing a Master's degree in jazz performance at the Conservatory of Amsterdam.